Disappointment That Cabinet's Policy is Not Sufficiently Definitely Radical.

BALFOUR MAKES CRITICISMS

Government's Policies Cannot be Carried Out Without Violent Use Of the Guillotine.

London, Jan. 29.-Big as is the Liberal program of legislation for the session of parliament which opened today, and earnest as the government leaders have shown themselves to be in their endeavor to meet the views of all factions constituting the present radical majority in the house of commons, there is a well defined feeling of disappointment among the ministerial supporters that the cabinet has not been more definitely radical in its proposals.

The speeches of the cabinet repre

The speeches of the cabinet representatives since the last session of parliament have led to the expectation of more definite proposals with regard to the government's Irish policy, old age pensions and education, to mention only a few subjects references to which the king's speech did not satisfy the respective elements especially interested therein.

Rumors from Dublin had forecasted another Irish councils bill, but there has been substituted for this a measure which, if it passes, will only deprive th landords of their grazing lands in certain sections, Similarly, forecasts with regard to educational and old age pensions proposals promised much more than is indicated by the references to these matters in the speech from the throne. There is an inclination to believe that the king used his influence, as far as he was able without overstepping the constitutional bounds, to modify the more aweeping proposals with which the eabinet is credited by those usually in their confidence.

A WHITTLEED PROGRAM,

A WHITTLED PROGRAM, Even the whittled program, however

Even the whittled program, however, strikes old parliamentarians with astonishment. "Stupendous' was the word frequently heard in the lobby of parliament applied to this program.

Mr. Balfour, leader of the opposition party, in the course of the address in nerman, assumed the leadership in the declared that it could not be carried through without an unprecedentedly violent use of the guillotine, which practically would stifle free debate.

Herbert H. Ashquith, chancellor of the exchequer, who, in the absence of the premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, assumed the leadreship in the house of commous, admitted that the dozen measures mentioned in the king's speech constituted a long list. Nevertheless, he added, the government not only purposed to carry them but "a great many others" are necessary to translate the platform professions into the pages of the statute books

OPPOSITION CRITICISM

OPPOSITION CRITICISM.

The criticisms of Mr. Balfour in the commons and Lord Lansdowne, the oposition leader in the house of lords, on the government proposals, apart from the length of the program, was directed against the peace conference at The Hague and the Anglo-Russian convention. Both speakers hoped that the government would withhold its ratification of the proposed international tribunal of appeal in prize cases until all was quite sure that the court would be properly constituted and governed by a code of regulations approved before hand by the powers affected. The opposition leaders also feared that Great Britain's interest in the Persian guif were not sufficiently protected by the Anglo-Russian convention. ected by the Angio-Russian con-Mr. Asquith was able to reassure the ambassador.

Lord Lansodwne took occasion to express his gratification that the difficulty with the United States regarding the Newfoundland fisheries question was going to arbitration, and considered that the settlement of the differences between Canada and Japan "was most creditable, not only to the Dominlon, but to the government of our ally, who had exhibited, not for the first time, a self-restraint and sagacity which had elicited the admiration of all who had opportunities of coming into close contact with its diplomatic proceedings."

The very notable absence in the king's speech of any reference to the relations between the two houses of parliament was sarcastically referred to by Lord Lansdowne. It is under-sake, Amen."

THE NATIONALISTS. The Nationalists came into prominence early in the session, but were folled by the speaker in an attempt to foiled by the speaker in an attempt to have a committee appointed to inquire into the conviction of Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member of the north division of Westmeath, who was recently sentenced to six months' imprisonment for contempt of court at a hearing in connection with the cattle driving trials. The speaker ruled the motion for the appointment of such a committee out of order.

HOUSE CHAPLAIN APPLAUDED FOR PRAYER.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The most unusual incident of raplauding the prayer of the chaplain occurred in the house of representatives today. The chaplain barely had concluded when handsclapping and laughter were heard from various directions. The prayer ran:

"Good Lord, deliver us, we beseach Thee, from the lingo, the demagogue, the bigot and all other undesirable citizens, and give us instead, the patriot, the statesman, the broad-minded, generous manly man, that Thy kingdom may come and Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven, for Christ's

HEALS

The deep, underlying cause of every old sore is a bad condition of the blood. This vital fluid has become infected with some germ or poison which prevents the place from healing. This infection may be the result of an inactive, sluggish condition of the system leaving the refuse matter in the body to be absorbed into the circulation instead of throwing it off through the usual channels of nature. Another cause is the weakening or polluting of this life-stream from hereditary taints, or from the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system. When the blood is in this condition a sore cannot heal because the impurities with which the circulation is filled are being constantly discharged into the place to irritate and inflame the tissues and further disease the surrounding flesh. The only treatment that can do any good is one that removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It begins at the fountain head of the trouble and drives out all germs, impurities and poisons, and then the place, being supplied with rich, pure blood, heals naturally and permanently. Local applications assist in cleausing the place, but a cure can only be affected through a purification of the blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

New York Republican County Committee Unanimously Adopts Resolution.

PRESIDENT IS COMMENDED.

Speeches Indicated Traces of Resentment Over Action of Former Meeting in Tabling Resolution.

New York, Jan. 29.-Gov. Charles E. Hughes was strongly endorsed for the Republican nomination for the presincy and the administration of President Roosevelt was commended in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Republican county committee at a meeting in Murray Hill lyceum to-The resolution favored an instructed delegation to the Chicago convention from this state for Gov. Hughes, which shall use all honorable means to obtain his nomination till he "is either cominated or directs the withdrawal f his name from the consideration of the convention.

Endorsement of Gov. Hughes had ome up for consideration at two previous meetings of the county committee, and each time resolutions to that effect were tabled. The action of that effect were tabled. The action of the committee on those occasions was provocative of much feeling among committeemen, and Secy. of War Taft recently wrote to Congressman Parsons, chairman of the committee, that he did not desire his friends to divide in his interest any state which had a candidate of its own, and that he would greatly deprecate a contest which imperils a Republican victory in New York in November.
